1. SUMMARY

"Agriculture and Rural Development" is one of the 35 chapters of the EU acquis. Ukraine gained EU candidate status in June 2022, and the European Commission will likely provide the negotiation framework by the end of 2024.

In the past, the EU's demands for transformation of the agricultural sector have largely determined the course of accession negotiations with Poland¹ in 2004 and Bulgaria² and Romania³ in 2007. Most of the candidate countries in the Western Balkans have so far failed to make significant progress in integrating their agricultural sectors into the Internal Market due to a lack of administrative capacity and inconsistent reforms⁴. Thus, and given the considerable size of the Ukrainian agricultural sector, this chapter may become one of the cornerstones of the negotiations between Ukraine and the European Commission.

This policy paper – the first in a series of studies on the challenges and prospects of Ukraine's agricultural sector integration into the EU – aims to identify the further steps in implementing European legislative and institutional reforms in Ukraine in the context of agricultural production. The study provides an overview of the most urgent – according to the European Commission – reforms and an assessment of progress in reforms specified by the Association Agreement.

The main focus is further measures for sectoral integration - the relevant conclusions are based on a screening of Ukrainian and European legislation, analysis of international experience, and interviews with experts.

2. THE BASICS OF THE EU'S COMMON AGRICULTURAL POLICY

The EU's Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) was established by the Treaty of Rome⁵ in 1957 to achieve the following objectives:

- to ensure a fair standard of living for farmers;
- to stabilise agricultural markets;
- to ensure food security;
- and to promote the efficiency of agricultural production.

⁵Treaty of Rome \(europa.eu\)

Until 2005, payments to farmers under the EU CAP were made in the form of subsidies for certain groups of agricultural products. In 2005, with the introduction of the Single Payment Scheme (SPS)⁶, payments were decoupled from agricultural production. The 2008 review of the EU CAP ("Health check"⁷) consolidated the abandonment of the subsidy-based support system and paved the way for further reforms. The Basic Payment Scheme (BPS)⁸ introduced in 2015 offered a more homogeneous approach to calculating payments across EU member states. In addition, the BPS introduced measures promoting environmental sustainability (the so-called Green Deal), which farmers must comply with to be eligible for full payments.

Funds under the EU CAP are allocated to the following funds:

- The European Agricultural Guarantee Fund (EAGF, the so-called "first pillar"). This fund primarily finances direct payments to farmers and market-related measures. Direct payments are intended to maintain and stabilise farmers' incomes.
- The European Agricultural Fund for Rural Development (EAFRD, the so-called "second pillar"). This fund focuses on rural development initiatives, including support for investment in agriculture, environmental sustainability and rural economy diversification

In addition, temporary funds can be used to finance agriculture in emergencies. For example, the European Union Recovery Instrument (EURI) provided money to farmers in 2021 and 2022 to mitigate the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic.

3. URGENT RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION

The eleventh chapter of the acquis, titled "Agriculture and Rural Development", is part of the cluster "Resources, Agriculture and Cohesion". According to the latest available report of the European Commission, dated 08.11.2023⁹, regarding this negotiating chapter, Ukraine is at an early stage of preparation for accession¹⁰.

⁹ Ukraine Report 2023 - European Commission \(europa.eu\)

¹⁰ The EC uses an ordinal scale to assess the level of readiness: early stage; some level of preparation; moderately prepared; good level of preparation; and well advanced.

The list of the most urgent recommendations includes the following:

1. continue harmonisation of legislation with EU legislation in the field of agriculture and rural development, focusing on the requirements of the Association Agreement, and strengthen administrative capacity for evidence-based policy-making;
2. finalise the National Strategy for the Development of Agriculture and Rural Areas for 2023-2030 and start its implementation;
3. monitor and record farms in the State Agrarian Register and use it to support agricultural producers financially. In addition, preparations should be made to establish payment agencies and farm accounting systems that align with EU standards.

Let's take a closer look at each of the recommendations.

3.1. REQUIREMENTS OF THE ASSOCIATION AGREEMENT

Annex XXXVIII to the Association Agreement¹¹ contains a list of 57 legal acts (including 19 directives¹² and 37 regulations¹³) regulating agriculture in the EU that were to be implemented in Ukraine (see Annex 1). Before getting a candidate status, Ukraine had implemented most of the regulations governing quality and marketing standards for various agricultural products (see Annex 1 for more details). However, several rules related to common market organisation, necessary for further integration of Ukrainian agriculture into the EU Internal Market, have not yet been implemented.

In particular, Regulation (EU) 1308/2013¹⁴, which establishes the rules for the organisation of the agricultural market in the EU, requires implementation. It serves as a legal basis for determining state intervention measures, regulating the procedure for interaction between various stakeholders in the agricultural market, anti-crisis measures, and determining minimum quality indicators. Ukrainian legislation involves several legal acts regulating product quality and, to some extent, the organisation of agricultural markets (see Annex 1). However, further implementation of the aforementioned European regulations will require an expansion of the scope and scale of government intervention in agricultural markets and substantially higher spending on farm support.

¹¹ASSOCIATION AGREEMENT between the European Union and its Member States, of the one part, and Ukraine, of the other part

¹³ Member States must implement the regulations without the possibility of amending or modifying them.

¹⁴ Regulation (EU) No 1308/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013 establishing a common organisation of markets in agricultural products and repealing Council Regulations (EEC) No 922/72, (EEC) No 234/79, (EC) No 1037/2001 and (EC) No 1234/2007, <https://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/en/TXT/?uri=CELEX%3A32013R1308>.

Regulation (EU) No 1307/2013¹⁵ contains the main provisions on direct payments to farmers under the EU CAP. The Delegated Regulation (EU) 639/2014¹⁶ specifies direct payment schemes to support farmers' incomes and increase agricultural productivity and sustainability. This regulation also introduces specific greening measures (environmental practices) that farmers must implement to be eligible for additional payments. Regulation (EU) No 1307/2013 contains specific provisions on funding from national budgets; in particular, such funding must be consistent with the principles of the EU CAP and not disrupt the functioning of the internal market. However, this is a right, not an obligation. Thus, the implementation of the regulation will not have negative consequences for the Ukrainian national budget in the short term but may serve as a signal of readiness for accession and simplify access to financial assistance in the pre-accession phase in the field of rural development (Pre-accession Assistance in Rural Development - PARD).

EC Regulation (EU) 2021/2289¹⁷ sets out the requirements for Member States to develop strategic plans under the EU CAP. By establishing detailed rules for the presentation of strategic plans for the EU CAP and the associated electronic exchange system, the regulation aims to harmonise the approach across Member States, ensuring that all plans are comprehensive, comparable and in line with EU objectives. Developing a national agricultural development strategy aligned with European principles and norms is another "homework" assignment from the EC. Thus, the implementation of the regulation can serve two purposes at the same time.

3.2. MONITORING AND ACCOUNTING OF AGRICULTURAL ENTERPRISES

Effective management of public funds under the CAP is possible thanks to monitoring systems, the most important of which are the following:

- The IACS (Integrated Administration and Control System) is a system used to manage and control the distribution of direct payments to farmers under the "first pillar" of the CAP. Its main objectives include:
 - ensuring the accuracy of agricultural payments by verifying eligibility criteria such as land ownership, land use and compliance with environmental and agricultural regulations;
 - monitoring of agricultural land use and changes in land plots over time;

¹⁵ Regulation (EU) No 1307/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013 establishing rules for direct payments to farmers under support schemes within the framework of the common agricultural policy and repealing Council Regulation (EC) No 637/2008 and Council Regulation (EC) No 73/2009, <https://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/en/TXT/?uri=CELEX%3A32013R1307>.

¹⁷ Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) 2021/2289 of 21 December 2021 laying down rules for the application of Regulation (EU) 2021/2115 of the European Parliament and of the Council on the presentation of the content of the CAP Strategic Plans and on an electronic system for the secure exchange of information, <https://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/EN/TXT/?uri=CELEX:32021R2289>.

- promoting the implementation of so-called "cross-compliance measures" that link subsidy payments to compliance with environmental, food safety and animal welfare standards¹⁸.
- LPIS (Land Parcel Identification System) is a component of IACS that serves as a digital mapping system and is used to identify and delimit agricultural land parcels. Its objectives include:
 - provide accurate spatial information on agricultural land plots, including their boundaries, sizes and types of land use;
 - support the administration and monitoring of CAP subsidy schemes by facilitating verification of land eligibility and compliance;
 - increase transparency and efficiency of agricultural subsidy management and monitoring¹⁹.
- FADN (Farm Accountancy Data Network) (more recently, the Farm Sustainability Data Network²⁰) was established by the European Commission to collect and analyse financial and economic data from farms in all EU member states. Its objectives include:
 - provide policymakers, researchers and stakeholders with comprehensive and reliable data on the financial performance, structure and dynamics of agricultural enterprises;
 - support the evaluation, monitoring and development of CAP policies and measures by providing evidence-based information on the impact of agricultural policy on farm incomes, productivity and competitiveness;
 - facilitate benchmarking and comparison of agricultural holdings in different regions and sectors, thus promoting best practices and knowledge sharing in the agricultural sector²¹.

The Ukrainian State Agrarian Register (SAR)²² was launched in August 2022 with EU assistance. The platform allows agricultural producers to obtain information on current state aid programmes and apply for them. Simultaneously, the registry collects, processes, and provides information on agricultural producers and their agricultural activities. Thus, the SAR partially overlaps with the functions of the IACS. At the same time, no systems in Ukraine would serve as equivalents for LPIS and FSDN.

3.3. NATIONAL STRATEGY FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF AGRICULTURE

National agricultural development strategies in EU Member States are tailored to the unique characteristics of each economy. They also align with more comprehensive EU policies like the EU CAP. The geography, climate, and economic characteristics of the Member States drive national strategies. However, they share common goals, such as increasing agricultural productivity, sustainability and competitiveness, and promoting rural development. Accordingly, successfully integrating the Ukrainian agricultural sector into the EU will require developing and implementing a national strategy.

As of March 2024, the strategy for developing agriculture in Ukraine until 2023 has not yet been approved. The State Targeted Programme for the Development of the Agricultural Sector of the Economy for the Period up to 2022²³ was positioned as a document created in accordance with European norms and practices. The document included specific provisions related to environmental protection and improving the quality of life (in particular, in rural areas). However, it lacked sufficient detail and a logical link between problems, strategic goals, and policies, not to mention quantitative indicators for monitoring and evaluation.

The current National Economic Strategy (NES) for the period up to 2030²⁴ presents several strategic goals for the development of the agricultural sector:

- ensuring the implementation of incentive and advisory agricultural policy;
- providing market players with quality infrastructure (land, irrigation systems, finance, education and science, transport, storage facilities);
- creating conditions for producers to provide affordable material and technical resources;
- balancing the production of high and low-margin products to increase the sector's profitability;
- promoting the development and complete provision of a market for the processing industry;
- optimising sales of products in the domestic and foreign markets;
- ensuring the production and export of safe and healthy agricultural and food products.

The document also describes tasks aimed at achieving each of the above goals. However, neither the State Targeted Programme for the Development of the Agricultural Sector of the Economy until 2022 nor the NES section on the agricultural sector meets European requirements.

The Romanian agricultural sector structure most resembles the Ukrainian one. However, Poland has a better agricultural development strategy and is one of the five most prominent beneficiaries of the CAP.

Let us consider Poland's Strategy for Sustainable Development of Rural Areas, Agriculture, and Fisheries 2030²⁵ as an example of good practices. The aforementioned practices include:

- A detailed problem analysis from the economic, environmental, social and demographic perspectives. The strategy identifies low incomes in rural areas, out-migration from rural areas, and low-tech rural production as the main barriers to agricultural and rural development. These problems are addressed comprehensively. Thus, the development strategy aims to improve living conditions, develop human capital, and increase productivity.

- A vision for the development of agriculture and rural areas in the long term. The Polish strategy aims at fundamental improvements through structural change. The development strategy describes a vision of agricultural production and the rural regions in a perspective that goes beyond the planning period.
- Setting strategic objectives that go beyond the narrow scope of sectoral policies. Strategic objectives address the economic aspects of agricultural production (e.g., productivity), improving living standards in rural areas, environmental protection, human capital, and entrepreneurship.
- There is a clear link between policies and strategic goals. The document contains a detailed justification for implementing each policy, and the proposed policies are logically aligned with the strategic goals.
- Describe the monitoring process and identify quantitative indicators to assess the extent and quality of strategy implementation. The strategy contains a list of quantitative indicators for each strategic goal (e.g. real income per person, percentage of revenue from the sale of innovative goods in exports, life expectancy, etc.)

Ukraine should develop a national agricultural development strategy, taking into account the criteria described above, to implement the European Commission's most urgent recommendations. Given the long planning horizon, it would also be advisable to develop the strategy in line with European policy documents, in particular, EC Regulation 2021/2289.

4. FURTHER STEPS

The European Commission's recommendations described in the previous section address the most urgent reforms. But further integration into the Internal Market will require more decisive steps. A discussion on future directions is presented in the remainder of this section.

4.1. AGRICULTURAL ACQUIS

EU agricultural legislation covers a wide range of policies, standards, and rules governing agricultural practices in the European Union, aimed at enhancing market integration, environmental sustainability, and socio-economic development of rural areas. The critical aspects of EU agricultural legislation are governed by the EU CAP, agricultural product standards, trade rules, and rural development (see Annex 2).

The EU CAP is regularly updated; accordingly, EU agricultural legislation is subject to constant changes and revision. In such circumstances, formal approximation of the agricultural legislation of the candidate countries to the European agricultural acquis plays a secondary role. Instead, the readiness to implement agricultural policy based on the main principles of the EU is crucial. The requirements for membership in the context of agricultural policy are mainly related to the following²⁶:

²⁶ Martinovska Stojcheska, A., Kotevska, A., Janeska Stamenkovska, I., Dimitrievski, D., Zhllima, E., Vaško, Ž., Bajramović, S., Kerolli Mustafa, M., Spahić, M., Kovačević, V., Koç, A.A., Bayaner, A., Ciaian, P. (2021). Recent agricultural policy developments in the context of the EU approximation process in the pre-accession countries, Martinovska Stojcheska, A., Kotevska, A., Ciaian, P., Ilic, B., Pavloska-Gjorgjieska, D., Salputra G., eds, EUR 30687 EN, Publications Office of the European Union, Luxembourg, 2021, ISBN 978-92-76-37270-7, <https://doi.org/10.2760/041338>.

- A sustainable model of agricultural policy. This criterion means establishing a balance between agricultural policy's economic, environmental, and social objectives. In addition, the policy should be comprehensive, i.e., go beyond the narrow scope of sectoral policies.
- Strategic framework for agricultural policy. Member states must implement agricultural policies with a strategy that is updated regularly. Agricultural policy must be evidence-based, and state interventions must have a clear logic and purpose. Monitoring and analytics based on specific indicators should be integral to the implementation process.
- The amount and distribution of financial resources. Member states should be able to co-finance EU activities (at the level of 1/3-1/2 of the total costs) and have sufficient funds to implement national agricultural support and development policies. Expenditures on direct support to producers (subsidies, direct payments, etc.) and investments in agricultural development should be balanced.
- Direct support measures for producers. State payments to agricultural producers should be limited to priority sectors and conditional on compliance with environmental and social standards, with beneficiaries being equal in the eyes of the state. Monitoring and accounting systems (primarily IACS and LPIS) should ensure the efficient and fair distribution of funds.
- Measures to support competitiveness. In line with national priorities, the state should apply a wide range of measures aimed at preserving and improving the competitiveness of agricultural producers. These include, among others, promoting collective investment and food chain development, supporting producer organisations and extension services, etc.
- Environmental protection measures. This requirement refers to the agri-environmental and environmental policy model and includes support for organic production, conservation of areas of high natural value, and other similar policies.
- Quality of life and employment. The state should introduce a functional system of local support, promote agricultural diversification and social inclusion, support relatively small farms, and improve living conditions in rural areas.

4.2. EXPERIENCE OF THE BALKAN CANDIDATE COUNTRIES

Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Montenegro, North Macedonia, and Serbia are candidates for EU membership. Therefore, it is appropriate to review their progress in agricultural sectoral integration and identify the main obstacles they have faced and which Ukraine may face.

- In the area of the strategic agricultural policy framework, the Balkan candidate countries are mostly insufficiently prepared for the accession²⁷. Although the abovementioned countries have successfully developed and implemented national strategies, the lack of clear linkages between policies and their expected results, insufficient administrative capacity in terms of monitoring and evaluation (often linked to the slow pace of implementation of European agricultural tracking and record-keeping systems), and the discrepancy between actual and manifested policies create barriers to further progress in this area.

- Given their relatively low income, the Balkan countries have fewer resources to support agriculture than the EU members. Most countries (except Serbia) spend disproportionately more on direct support measures than on rural development.
- Producer support measures are limited to subsidies. As EU countries have abandoned this model in favour of direct payments (i.e., payments that are not linked to production volumes but are conditional on compliance with production standards), Balkan countries also need to reduce subsidies (payments linked to agricultural output) while increasing direct payments to farmers (i.e., payments that are partially related to the area of land cultivated and compliance with environmental and other production standards).
- Competitiveness support measures in the Balkan countries are mainly aimed at facilitating farmers' access to finance due to the dominance of small farms. Spending on food quality, safety, research, and development is disproportionately low compared to the EU.
- In the context of environmental protection measures, none of the Balkan countries has sufficient policy quality, and actual measures are significantly at odds with programme documents.
- Most Balkan countries face problems similar to the EU regarding quality of life and employment in rural areas. The EU's top-down approach to policy in this area is virtually absent in most Balkan countries and is accompanied by relatively modest budgetary expenditures.

In general, the agricultural policies of the Western Balkan countries are in line with the EU CAP in terms of commitments and planning rather than in terms of actual policies implemented. Despite the implementation of the vast majority of European legal acts regulating agricultural production and formal compliance with EC requirements (e.g., adoption of an agricultural development strategy), most Balkan countries remain constrained by the lack of administrative capacity and inability to increase public spending.

4.3. UKRAINE'S READINESS FOR ACCESSION IN THE CONTEXT OF THE AGRICULTURAL ACQUIS

An overview of the main regulatory acts of the European agricultural acquis is provided in Annex 2. Most of the legal acts regulating the quality of farm products have been implemented after signing the Association Agreement. At the same time, legislation regulating the internal market has not yet been implemented. In particular, this includes:

- protecting agricultural (primarily small) producers from unfair practices;
- regulatory documents confirming Ukraine's commitment to adhere to the vision for the future of the EU CAP;
- rules for financial support for national plans developed under the EU CAP;
- rules governing direct payments to farmers;
- rules for financing, management and monitoring of critical agricultural support funds;
- assistance and compensation related to the joint organisation of agricultural markets;
- rules for monitoring and accounting in agricultural production;
- promotion of EU agricultural products (i.e., increasing the competitiveness and consumption of EU agricultural products both within the EU and in third countries);
- rules governing the production and marketing of genetically modified products;
- rules governing the use of pesticides and fertilisers;
- regulation of competition in agricultural markets.

4.4. GOVERNMENT PLANS

Ukraine gained candidate status in June 2022, and the new status requires sectoral integration with the EU at a deeper level than that provided for in the Association Agreement. Accordingly, the current governmental screening of the compliance of Ukrainian legislation with the European acquis²⁸ contains an action plan aimed at enabling Ukraine's future participation in the EU's Common Agricultural Policy. In particular, it concerns the implementation of regulations on national aid, CAP mechanisms, and agricultural funds (see details in Annex 2). The implementation of the Government's plans should partially close the gap between Ukrainian and European agricultural legislation, but not completely.

4.5. EXPERT OPINION

As part of the study, the Centre for Economic Strategy conducted interviews with Ukrainian and European experts and representatives of agribusiness, as well as with anonymous European experts²⁹. Based on the issues raised during interviews and the public discussion organised by CES³⁰ on 08.03.2024, we have formulated several possible priority areas for further integration of the Ukrainian agricultural sector into the European Internal Market.

- Implementation of legislation aimed at creating a general framework for the functioning of the agricultural market. The institutional design of the Ukrainian agricultural market partly contributes to its relatively high level of concentration, as it is easier for large players to survive given the limited government intervention. Similar problems in the EU and lengthy discussions on this issue culminated in the adoption of Directive 2019/633³¹, which aims to prevent unfair practices and is primarily aimed at protecting small producers and suppliers. Although the directive does not provide an exhaustive list of unfair practices, it creates a general framework for national legislation. However, according to the analysis of a set of regulations and reports³², the implementation of Directive 2019/633 can prevent unreasonable extensions of payment terms, claims for additional benefits that are not related to the subject matter of the contract, the use of excessively detailed product specifications to refuse delivery or reduce the price of the ordered goods; inadequately high contractual penalties, etc.

Thus, implementing Directive 2019/633 can not only narrow the gap between Ukrainian and European agricultural legislation but also significantly improve market conditions for small farmers.

- Expanding the system of state aid to farmers. Before the full-scale invasion, the level of state support for agriculture in Ukraine was substantially lower compared to EU countries³³. Moreover, the legal framework governing state support for agricultural producers is much less detailed and provides for a narrower range of instruments compared to EU legislation (see Annexes 1 and 2).

Regulation (EU) 1370/2013³⁴ is one of the key documents regulating the principles of interaction between the state and agricultural producers. In addition, a set of accompanying regulations (see Annex 2) will also require implementation.

The government plans shared by Mr Vysotskyi include updating the law "On State Support of Agriculture of Ukraine"³⁵. In addition, it is planned to establish a payment agency (similar to those in the EU), which should operate outside the Ministry of Agrarian Policy and Food to administer and monitor state payments to farmers.

- Monitoring and reporting. According to the updated EU CAP principles, state aid is not directly linked to production volumes but is conditional on meeting several requirements. Under this model, monitoring and reporting play a crucial role. The implementation of key regulations is one of the government's priorities. Mr Vysotskyi - as a representative of the Ministry of Agrarian Policy and Food of Ukraine - noted that the draft law "On the State Agrarian Register"³⁶ should bring the SAR in full compliance with the European monitoring standards (the law is expected to be adopted by the end of 2024). In addition, the public platform for monitoring land relations³⁷ should be launched in 2025 (however, it should be kept in mind that public access to information may be limited until the end of martial law). However, the launch of the FSDN equivalent will take longer (at least until the end of 2026) as Ukraine has not had any such system before; however, work on the pilot version has already begun. As the implementation of the FSDN system will require significant resources, it is expected that the programme will be at least partially financed by the Ukraine Facility.

- Adoption of European production standards. Most of Ukraine's European integration initiatives in the field of agricultural production have so far been focused on introducing standards for the marketing of agricultural products. However, increasing the volume of trade with the EU will also require compliance with European production practices. Ukraine has implemented legislation on livestock welfare and – to a great extent – on the certification of organic production, but legislation on genetic engineering in agriculture and the use of pesticides and fertilisers is only partially in line with European standards (see Annex 2).
- Raising awareness of the voluntary nature of CAP participation. Although payments to farmers under the EU CAP are closely linked to a number of environmental requirements, it is important to understand the difference between mandatory and optional agricultural practices. The first group includes, among others, rules governing the use of nitrate fertilisers³⁸ and pesticides³⁹, preventing water pollution⁴⁰, and rules aimed at preserving rare bird species⁴¹. At the same time, crop diversification⁴², conservation focus areas⁴³, and continuous pasture management⁴⁴ are conditions for receiving full CAP payments. What does this imply for Ukrainian farmers? Even the European model of agriculture provides enough flexibility to keep economic efficiency a priority. Ukrainian agriculture and food processing are represented by fewer large producers, unlike most European countries, where the model of relatively small enterprises that fulfil most of the requirements of the EU CAP dominates. Accordingly, the level of production efficiency in Ukraine is higher. Thus, even after Ukraine gains EU membership, Ukrainian farmers can continue to focus on efficient mass production. At the same time, small producers will be able to receive additional payments under the EU CAP.

⁴² This practice involves growing different crops over time on the same land. It is not mandatory for all farmers, but those who wish to receive certain CAP payments must comply with crop diversification requirements to improve biodiversity and soil health.

⁴⁴ The EU CAP includes measures to support permanent grassland. While conversion of some pastures may be permitted, significant changes may lead to a reduction in CAP payments.

- Defining a strategic export model. Before the full-scale invasion, the EU was not among the main importers of Ukrainian agricultural products; however, the temporary liberalisation of tariff quotas⁴⁵ has led to an increase in Ukrainian agricultural exports to the EU⁴⁶. Thus, a model of the EU integration under which Ukraine continues to focus - at least temporarily - on non-EU countries could speed up the accession. At the same time, the above-mentioned strategy would require revision of trade agreements between the EU and third countries.

5. CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Ukraine has made some progress in harmonising its agricultural regulatory framework with the EU legislation. However, if distinguishes between "quantity" and "quality", one must admit that most of the laws and orders adopted in the framework of the European integration process (in particular, in the course of the Association Agreement implementation) did not address the fundamental principles of agricultural production regulation and functioning of agricultural markets. Therefore, further steps will require revising the existing models and, accordingly, significant resources.

Let's look at Ukraine's readiness to implement European agricultural legislation in key areas:

- Market organisation: regulation of relations between entrepreneurs. The Law on Agricultural Cooperation⁴⁷ is the central act regulating relations between agricultural producers in Ukraine. However, this law is only marginally in line with the EU standards. In particular, Ukraine has not implemented a law protecting farmers from unfair practices⁴⁸.
- Market organisation: regulation of relations between producers and the state. European legislation defines a wide range of measures and policies aimed at supporting agricultural producers by the state. In particular, these include measures aimed at stabilising agricultural markets (such as assistance with farm storage and other types of intervention)⁴⁹. However, the Ukrainian regulatory framework is much less detailed and comprehensive. During the war, Ukraine did not have sufficient budgetary resources to fundamentally change the support model for agricultural producers. However, work on developing a regulatory framework can already be initiated.

- Regulation of specific agricultural markets. In the past, strict quotas on agricultural production were designed to ensure a stable supply (and thus prices) of agricultural products. The current EU CAP is more free-market oriented, and most of the quotas are no longer in place. However, the markets for sugar, dairy, wine, and fish are still subject to regulation, albeit not as uncompromising as before (and it cannot be guaranteed that in the future, the list of products under the EU CAP regulation will not be extended). The volume of Ukrainian agricultural production is outstanding compared to the current EU members. In addition, for the Ukrainian economy, which is being affected by the war, a reduction in the number of agricultural enterprises as a result of quotas (as it happened, for example, in Poland) is not feasible or acceptable. Thus, negotiations on the relevant regulations⁵⁰, which are formally part of the European agricultural acquis, will be fierce. It may be worth considering the recommendation to allow Ukraine to target non-EU countries as agricultural export destinations.
- Accounting, monitoring, and financing. Legislative changes that are due shortly should bring the SAR in line with European standards. At the same time, introducing the new platform for information on land relations and land plot mapping is not possible until the war is over - this requirement of the European partners cannot be met in the near future for quite objective reasons. In addition, the farmers' accounting data platform will require at least three years (and significant external funding) to become fully operational.

- Legal framework for participation in the EU CAP. Given the role of the EU CAP in the EU Internal Market, Ukraine will not be able to become a full-fledged member without implementing the necessary legal framework - even under the so-called "Polish scenario"⁵¹. Most environmental practices under the EU CAP are completely voluntary for farmers, as are payments to farmers from the national budget. At the moment, the above-mentioned regulatory framework of the CAP has not been practically implemented in Ukraine. At the same time, fulfilment of this condition does not involve fundamental changes or significant investments.
- Specific requirements for production standards. Ukraine has made significant progress in implementing European legislation on organic production. However, genetic engineering in agriculture has only a general legal framework⁵², which requires further elaboration in order to be fully compliant with the EU regulations. In addition, the legislation on the use of fertilisers and pesticides in Ukraine is fundamentally different from the EU rules.
- Requirements for quality and marketing standards of agricultural products. Most of the requirements specified in the Association Agreement were related to quality standards for agricultural products. Ukraine has made significant progress in this area. Several draft laws⁵³ are due in the near future, and except for that, the relevant EU legislation has been implemented.

⁵¹ This refers to the transition period that was established for Poland after the country became an EU member in 2004. At the beginning, payments to Polish farmers under the EU CAP were only a small fraction of those to current EU member states. However, by 2022, Poland was already among the top 5 beneficiaries of the EU CAP.

ANNEX 2. KEY LEGAL ACTS OF THE EUROPEAN ACQUIS REGULATING AGRICULTURE

Act	Brief description	Commentary on the status of implementation
Common Agricultural Policy
Directive (EU) 2019/633 on unfair trading practices in business-to-business relationships in the agricultural and food supply chain https://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/EN/TXT/?uri=celex%3A32019L0633	It contains a list of unfair practices and prevents the exploitation of small producers by large holdings.	Zero readiness for implementation.
Regulation (EU) No 1308/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013 establishing a common organisation of markets in agricultural products and repealing Council Regulations (EEC) No 922/72, (EEC) No 234/79, (EC) No 1037/2001 and (EC) No 1234/2007 https://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/en/TXT/?uri=CELEX%3A32013R1308 Additionally: State intervention and assistance for private storage Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2016/1238 of 18 May 2016 supplementing Regulation (EU) No 1308/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council with regard to public intervention and aid for private storage https://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/EN/TXT/?uri=celex%3A32016R1238 Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) 2016/1240 of 18 May 2016 laying down rules for the application of Regulation (EU) No 1308/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council with regard to public intervention and aid for private storage	It sets the rules for organising the EU agricultural market. It serves as a legal framework for defining state intervention measures, regulating the interaction between various stakeholders in the agricultural market and defining minimum quality indicators.	Ukrainian legislation contains a list of legal acts regulating product quality and, to a certain extent, the organisation of agricultural markets in particular: LAW OF UKRAINE ON AGRICULTURAL COOPERATION https://zakon.rada.gov.ua/laws/show/819-20#Text The EC Regulations 2019/33 and 2019/34 are on the priority list according to the conclusions of the initial governmental screening. However, given the significant difference in the degree of state intervention, further implementation of this regulation will require a radical change in the state model of support for farmers. In addition, the Ukrainian agricultural sector has a much higher level of concentration than the European sector, which may be an obstacle to the implementation of competition regulations.
